SANTA BARBARA WINE MAVERICK

Santa Barbara is one of California's hottest wine zones, due, in large part, to extraordinary talents like Andrew Murray of Andrew Murray Vineyards. The 32-year-old makes intense but elegant Syrahs, Grenaches and Viogniers that Robert M. Parker, Jr., says are "well worth seeking out." He's also experimenting with screwtops; by 2008 they'll seal all his wines (805-686-9604). —Kiri Tennenbaum

F&W names the 35 most fearsome talents in wine and food, all 35 years old or under: maverick artisans, renegade importers, ingenious activists, visionary entrepreneurs and one brilliant guy who knows more than anyone about Chinese restaurants in L.A.
